

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A process and device are provided for determining the position and/or the shape of at least one mark on a web to be printed on. The position and/or the shape of the at least one mark in the image to be printed is determined with the use of prepress data. The device for determining the position and/or the shape of at least one mark on a web to be printed on includes an input device
5 for entering prepress data and a device for determining position data and/or shapes for a mark based on the prepress data entered.